

Jenine Jolicoeur is our Occupational Therapy Aide. As an occupational therapy aide, Jenine works fluidly and collaborates with both the Play2Grow Pediatric Therapy team and your family to ensure the best possible outcomes for your child. Jenine's experience in working with children and people of all ages, each with unique and individual needs, helps guide her role as an occupational therapy aide. Although Jenine does not provide direct therapy services, she plays an integral and valuable role in providing support to you and our team through the many facets of your child's service delivery and care. She is responsible for many of our behind-the-scenes efforts that help ensure Play2Grow Pediatric Therapy will provide your child with the highest level of quality care.

Jenine received her Bachelor of Science Degree in Kinesiology (2018) from California State University Sacramento. Jenine is currently studying while pursuing graduate school with the goal of one day becoming an occupational therapist. She is passionate about occupational therapy and strives to learn and apply her skills and knowledge in her role as an occupational therapy aide, enhancing her future occupational therapy practice.

Although originally from southern California, Jenine is happy to call Sacramento home. However, she insists on maintaining her loyalty to her Los Angeles sports teams. When not at the clinic, you might find Jenine working out, hanging out with her friends and family, or snow skiing in Tahoe. As a CSUS sorority alumnae, Jenine is also active in leadership and continues to advise the local chapter.
